What you get

- One finished short script: the hook for the first 3 seconds, the spoken lines in order, the on-screen text for each line, and the closing line.
- Written only from your facts · nothing invented. The word count is checked against the length you picked, and the wording carries no brand names and no claims that cannot be proven.
- The final product: one PDF · a filming sheet (each part with its time guide, what to say, and what shows on screen, with the words in editable boxes to copy from) plus a plain-text page holding only the script.

The pages that follow are a sample of that final product.

How the service works

The road your order travels · step by step

1. You choose and pay
   Pick your tier on the service page and pay by card. The price and the scope of time are shown before you pay · nothing is added later.

2. You send your facts
   The thank-you page opens your intake form. We work only from what you send · a missing fact pauses the clock, and we ask instead of inventing.

3. We write your script
   The hook, the spoken lines, the on-screen text, and the closing line · written only from your facts, in the length you picked.

4. You review the draft
   The draft arrives on the channel you picked · WhatsApp, text message, or email. You have 3 days to review each draft.

5. We revise
   Your tier sets the rounds: Basic 1 round, Standard 2 rounds, Premium 3 rounds. Each round works from your notes.

6. You approve the words
   When the words are right, you accept them on the acceptance form. Your click, your username, and your receipt number form the agreement record.

7. You receive the final PDF
   One PDF: a filming sheet with each part, its time guide, and the words in editable boxes · plus a plain-text page with only the script.

8. You film it yourself
   You film in your own voice, on your own account, and post it yourself. We only provide the text · we do not film or post for you.

Questions before you pay? Use the Ask a Question link on the site · a human answers.

YOUR SCRIPT - FILMING SHEET

Demo script. Topic from the client: a folding fix for sourdough, for a weekend-market baker.
Length: about 40 seconds of speaking (97 words). Read it in your own voice; the times are guides.

PART	YOU SAY	ON SCREEN
HOOK 0-3 sec	Your sourdough splits open in the oven? Watch this fold.	Sourdough splits open? Watch this fold.
LINE 1 3-12 sec	After the last stretch, turn the dough onto a clean counter. No flour - the dry surface is what gives you grip.	Clean counter. No flour.
LINE 2 12-22 sec	Pull the far edge toward you, fold it to the middle, and turn the bowl a quarter turn. Four times, until the top feels tight like a drum.	Fold - turn - fold - turn. 4 times.
LINE 3 22-30 sec	Seam side up into the basket, rest it one hour, and bake it in the hottest oven you have.	Rest 1 hour. Hottest oven.
CLOSING 30-36 sec	A tight fold on top means the loaf opens where you cut it - not wherever it wants.	It opens where YOU cut it.

COPY YOUR WORDS - the spoken script, in editable boxes:

HOOK: Your sourdough splits open in the oven? Watch this fold.

LINE 1: After the last stretch, turn the dough onto a clean counter. No flour - the dry surface is what gives you grip.

LINE 2: Pull the far edge toward you, fold it to the middle, and turn the bowl a quarter turn. Do it four times, until the top feels tight like a drum.

LINE 3: Seam side up into the basket, rest it one hour, and bake it in the hottest oven you have.

CLOSING: A tight fold on top means the loaf opens where you cut it - not wherever it wants.

The on-screen text, editable:

HOOK: Sourdough splits open? Watch this fold.
LINE 1: Clean counter. No flour.
LINE 2: Fold - turn - fold - turn. 4 times.
LINE 3: Rest 1 hour. Hottest oven.
CLOSING: It opens where YOU cut it.

YOUR APPROVED WORDS - PLAIN TEXT

Nothing on this page but your script. Select, copy, paste.

SPOKEN SCRIPT

HOOK: Your sourdough splits open in the oven? Watch this fold.

LINE 1: After the last stretch, turn the dough onto a clean counter. No flour - the dry surface is what gives you grip.

LINE 2: Pull the far edge toward you, fold it to the middle, and turn the bowl a quarter turn. Do it four times, until the top feels tight like a drum.

LINE 3: Seam side up into the basket, rest it one hour, and bake it in the hottest oven you have.

CLOSING: A tight fold on top means the loaf opens where you cut it - not wherever it wants.

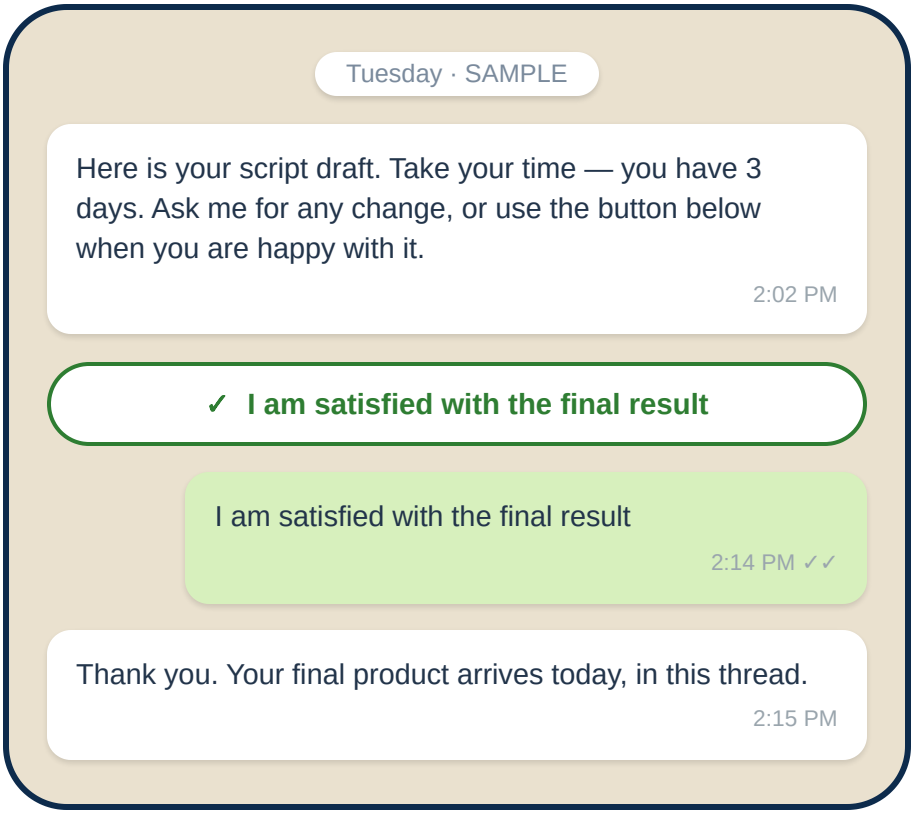

ON-SCREEN TEXT

HOOK: Sourdough splits open? Watch this fold.
LINE 1: Clean counter. No flour.
LINE 2: Fold - turn - fold - turn. 4 times.
LINE 3: Rest 1 hour. Hottest oven.
CLOSING: It opens where YOU cut it.

YOUR AGREEMENT — THE CLICK THAT CLOSED THIS SERVICE

SAMPLE PAGE

This service ends only one way: with the client's click. This page shows how that moment looks in the chat thread — drawn as a sample, with sample words and times.

THE AGREEMENT RECORD

Client: Sample Client
Registered email: sample.client@email.com
Registered phone: (650) 000-0000
The agreement: “I am satisfied with the final result”
Date and time of the click: Tuesday · 2:14 PM · SAMPLE

In a real order, this page holds the real screenshot of that click — the client's own message, with its real date and time, taken from the thread — and the record above carries the name and the email or phone the client registered for the service with, taken from their registration. The click is the agreement: the rounds end, the service closes, and this document — the final product — is delivered the same day.

Your privacy

What we keep, what we erase, and the limits the law sets

We protect your privacy to the full limit the law allows · and we comply with the law at the same time. This notice tells you exactly where that line is, before you pay.

What we collect.
Only what your service needs to do the work: the facts you send us, and a way to reach you. Our service forms do not ask for your real name or your email. You are identified by your username, your phone number, and your payment receipt number.

Who sees it.
Your facts stay in a private working file, handled by our AI assistant, who does the work. The owner reviews only your finished product · how it looks and its quality · not your personal information.

What we erase.
When your service ends and your payment is final, we erase your working information: your facts, your answers, and your drafts. If you come back later, we start from zero · your facts are gone.

What we must keep, and why.
The law does not allow us to erase everything:
· Payment records. Tax law requires us to keep receipts and payment records for years. Your payment is also processed and held by Stripe, under Stripe's own privacy policy. We never see or store your full card number.
· The acceptance record. Your username, your phone number, your payment receipt number, and your acceptance of the finished product · the proof that your service was delivered and accepted. Payment dispute windows stay open for months, so this record must stay with them.
· Screening records, on orders the law requires them for · for example, orders sent abroad.

What we never do.
We never sell your information. We never share it for marketing. We never use it for anything except your service, the records the law requires, and a dispute about your own payment.

Your rights.
You may ask us what we hold about you. You may ask us to erase everything the law allows us to erase. We will do it, and we will tell you plainly what the law required us to keep.

The limit, in one line.
We keep your information private to the full limit the law allows. Where the law requires us to keep or show a record, we follow the law · and we keep nothing beyond it.